Keith Gets Backing in Minnesota

By GERRY NILSON
MINNEAPOLIS, Minn. (AP) — Lt. Gov. A.M. (Sandy) Keith launched his campaign to become governor of Minnesota today after winning endorsement in the bitterest of all Democratic-Farmer-Labor party conventions.

Keith, 37, shattered tradition Sunday night by winning the endorsement away from Gov. Karl F. Rolvaag, 52, who sought party backing for a second term.

It took 20 ballots and 30 hours of convention time to settle the feud between the two men who were running mates in 1962 when Rolvaag won his first term by a scant 91 votes.

The fight shunted all other convention business aside. The delegates will be called back in two or three weeks to finish up.

Minnesota Republicans open their convention Thursday. Both parties will officially nominate their candidates in the Sept. 13 state primary.

Political Picture at a Glance

WASHINGTON (AP) — Minnesota Democrats: The Minnesota Democratic-Farmer-Labor party has endorsed Lt. Gov. A.M. Keith, 37, as its gubernatorial nominee. Keith defeated 52-year-old Gov. Karl F. Rolvaag, 759 to 356, on the 20th ballot Sunday night.

Maine primaries: Democrats and Republicans vote today in Maine's primary elections. Gov. John H. Reed, 45, a Republican, is opposed for re-election by State Rep. John S. Erwin, 45. Seeking the Democratic gubernatorial nomination are House Speaker Dana W. Childs, Senate President Carlton Day Reed Jr. and Secretary of State Kenneth M. Curtis. Sen. Margaret Chase Smith, a Republican and Rep. William D. Hathaway, a Democrat, are unopposed.

Kennedy-Johnson: Sen. Robert F. Kennedy, saying his only political plans are to run for re-election in 1970, says he will support President Johnson in 1968. The New York Democrat made the statement Sunday when told that Sen. Wayne Morse, D-Ore., had announced he would consider supporting Kennedy for president in 1968 if Johnson's views on Viet Nam were unchanged.

New President

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) — The Rev. James M. Demeke has been named president of Canisius College of Buffalo.

A program about the schools in Hope was brought to the Hope Rotary Club on Friday June 17 by Superintendent of Schools James H. Jones. He told the club that the contract for building the new grade school would be let within a week, that tentative approval had been given to making the old post office into a school administration building, and he concluded with a financial report of several aspects of our school system.

As the second part of his program Rotarian Jones introduced Earl Downs, Guidance Counselor at Hope High. He gave facts and figures which showed Hope High graduates to be above the national average of those who go to college. This was based on statistics for the last 8 years. "It is not who go to college but who stay in college," he hastened to add and, "those who further their education usually are inspired at home as well as at school."

President Lester Sitzes presided over his last meeting of the Hope Rotary Club, as new officers, headed by Paul W. Klipsch president will be installed at the final meeting of June. Club guests included Edgar Arnett of Mobile, Ala., formerly of Ma City, and Linwood Smith of Hope, Bob Lewallen of Oklahoma-Little Rock.

Comedian Ed Wynne Dies at 79

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — "During his last three months, he wouldn't let his three young granddaughters come to see him. His appearance had changed, and he couldn't talk. He wanted them to remember him as the roly-poly funny-man."

This was a son's remembrance of Ed Wynne, the great comedian-actor who died in his sleep Sunday at 79, a victim of cancer.

The son, actor Keenan Wynne, said his father had been in failing health for a year, although he remained active until a few months ago. Earlier this year, he appeared on Red Skelton's television show, made a candy commercial and played a role in Walt Disney's "The Gnomobile."

"In March dad went to Washington for the American Parkinson's Disease Association, his favorite charity," Keenan said. "He did 11 shows in two days. When he came home from that trip, he began to show the results of the cancer."

The elder Wynne had been operated on for a tumor in his neck, and the tumor was found to be malignant. He spent the last three months in his Wilshire Boulevard apartment. He was visited there Saturday night by Keenan and his wife and Keenan's sons, Tracy and Ned.

"Dad had the Dodge game going on the radio," said Keenan, "and he was excited because his boy, Sandy Koufax, brought in another victory. He couldn't talk, but he held up his fingers indicating the score, 3 to 1."

He died at 7:45 the next morning.

Ed Wynne's 64 years as an entertainer brought him triumphs in every medium of show business. For half a century he evoked the laughter of millions as "the perfect fool." Then, when it seemed the vogue had passed him by, he turned serious and became a fine character actor.

Among his roles: Uncle Samson in "Marjorie Morningstar," the crotchety dentist in "The Diary of Anne Frank" — for which he was nominated for an academy award — the blind man in "The Greatest Story Ever Told."

Wynne ran away from his Philadelphia home at 16 to join a traveling repertoire company. His father, a hat manufacturer, so objected to his son's choice of profession that he insisted on a name change to avoid family disgrace. Born Edwin Leopold, the young performer fashioned his debut in the Ziegfeld Follies in vaudeville and moved easily into Broadway shows, making produced such Broadway hits as "Ed Wynne Carnival," "The Perfect Fool" — which became his sobriquet thereafter — "Laugh Parade" and "Hooray for What."

Increase in Percentage of Rape

WASHINGTON (AP) — A sharp increase in rape paced a 6 per cent increase in the nation's crime rate for the first quarter of this year over the corresponding quarter of 1965, the FBI reported today.

The number of reported rapes jumped 14 per cent with a 22 per cent rise in the north central states and an 18 per cent in cities of more than 25,000 persons.

Suburbia continued to record the sharpest crime rate increase — 9 per cent. Rural crime rose 8 per cent and big city crime 4 per cent.

The violent crimes of murder (4 per cent), rape, robbery (4 per cent), and assault (9 per cent) increased an aggregate of 7 per cent, while the property crimes of burglary (4 per cent), larceny (11 per cent) and auto theft (5 per cent) rose an average of 8 per cent.

Dodd Hearing to Be Closed to the Public

By JOE HALL

WASHINGTON (AP) — The year-old Senate ethics committee begins closed hearings today on the first case it has handled — charges of misconduct against Sen. Thomas J. Dodd.

Since early March the bipartisan, six-member panel has been looking into charges against the white-haired, 59-year-old Dodd made by columnists Drew Pearson and Jack Anderson.

The sessions will start in secret but the committee hopes to go into public hearings soon on this phase involving Dodd's relations with Julius Klein, owner of a Chicago public relations firm and registered agent for West German business interests.

Pearson and Anderson have detailed their charges against the Connecticut Democrat in a series of columns extending over several months. Some of Dodd's former employees have said they supplied information on which the charges were based.

Dodd first asked the Senate ethics committee to investigate, declaring that is probe would demonstrate "the malicious untruth of the charges against me."

Later he filed a $2 million libel suit against the columnists in which he replied to many of their accusations.

Pearson and Anderson wrote that Dodd served as "an errand boy" for Klein, delivered speeches ghost-written by Klein and made a special trip to west Germany in 1964 to help Klein retain his clients there.

Dodd said the 1964 trip was made as vice chairman of the Senate Internal Security subcommittee to investigate murder and kidnapping as an instrument of Soviet policy. He said a report to the Senate titled "Murder International, Inc.," was made as a result of the probe.

HELEN HELP US!

by Helen Bottel

Complaints One-Sided,

Says Husband

Dear Helen: Why is it always the wives who write in and complain about husbands? The way they talk, they're all on nerve pills because of their low-life husbands, the dogs.

It should be men who do the complaining. We have to come home from work to a house that is in an uproar, and hear the poor little woman whine about how hard SHE has to work, how we mistreat her, etc.

I'd suggest these dames stop taking pills of all sorts and live up to their standards as wife and mother. Then maybe their nerves won't get the best of them.

As for being treated like a dog, well some dogs have better homes than some husbands. — Sad Dog

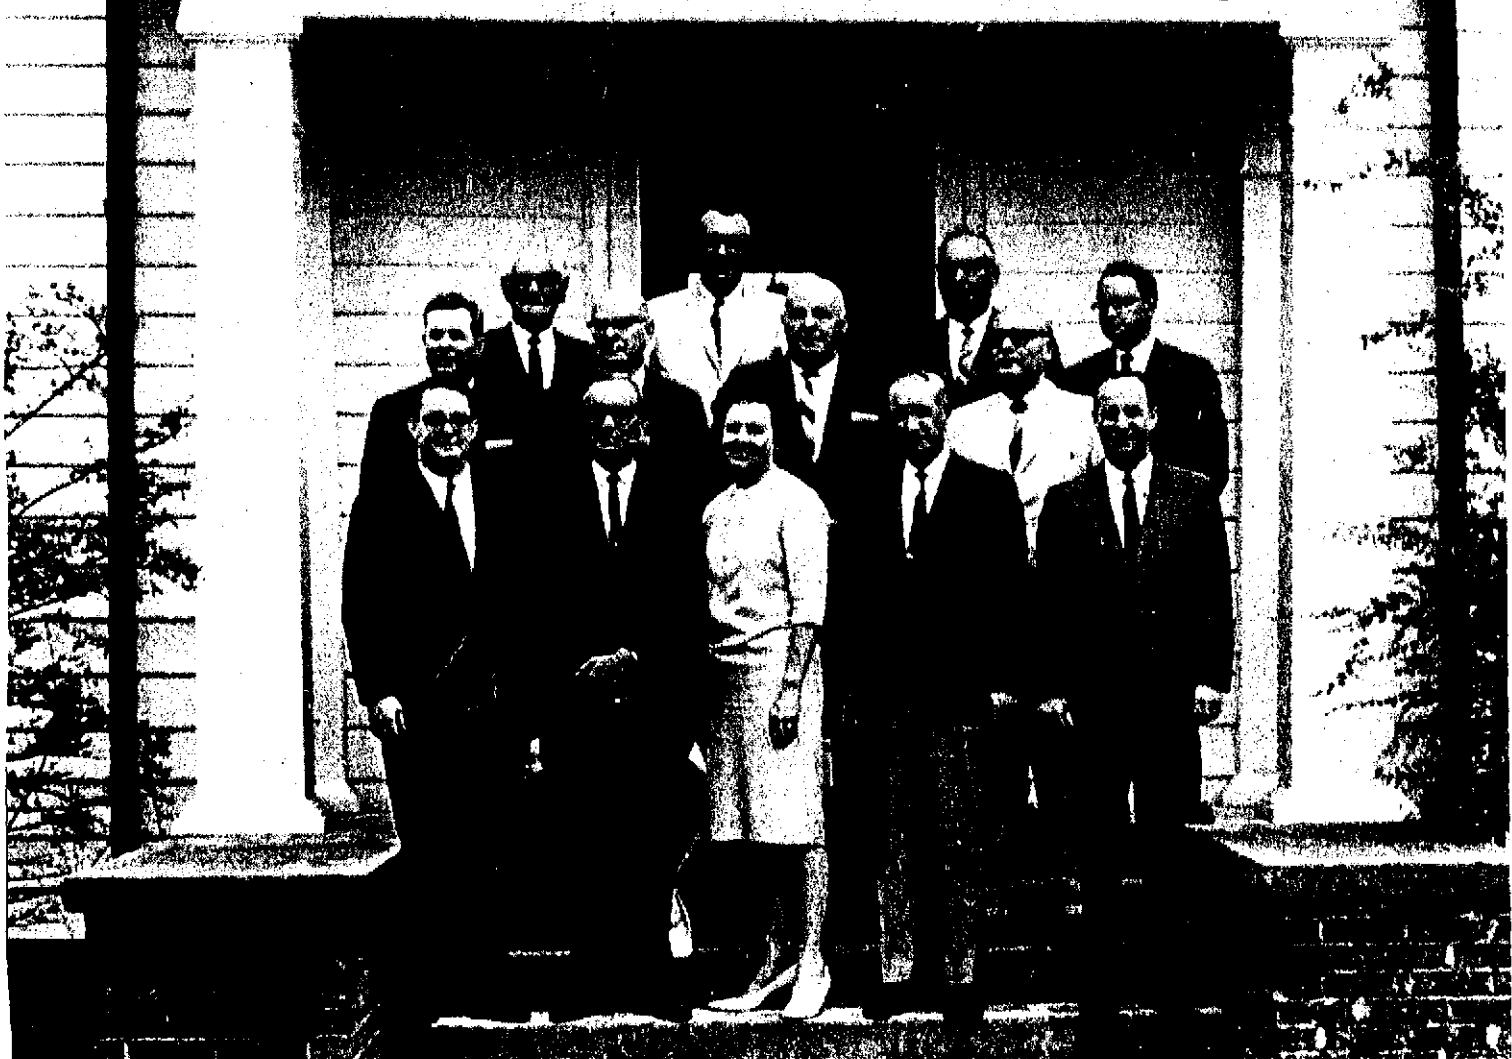

Dear Dog: It isn't always the wives who do the complaining, but I'll admit they keep loudest and longest, and about five times as often... so they get fewer ulcers.

Isn't it amazing how just living together can turn two perfectly nice people into "A low-life dog" married to a "whining pill-pulper"?

Know why? Because of that very human urge to get even. If you slight your wife, she "Pays you back" by showing you how rough her life is — in spades! The more shewhines — well, if that's her game, you'll give her something to yap about.

Soon you're trying to see who can hurt WHO the most, and two nice people have become a couple of screaming meanies.

Television and Radio

NEW YORK (AP) — Dan Rowan and Dick Martin, a comedy team, took over Dean Martin's easy-going variety hour Thursday night and apparently will turn it into a free-wheeling NBC show for the summer months.

Rowan and Martin are an urbane and attractive pair who somehow always make this viewer think they are going to be — any minute now — funnier than they actually turn out to be. But they are pleasant and amusing, and they have some vital assistance in Dom de Luise, who is most effective in sketches.

They have some attractive young talent in the show. There is a striking young singer named Leinie Kaza who looks a lot like Barbra Streisand. And a very pretty very young singer, Julie Rolin, with a fine soprano voice.

One of the gimmicks of the show is its informality. The actors themselves shove the scenery and props into position. A regular feature will be an "improvisation," when the three comedians and a guest — Thursday night it was Tom Smothers — ad lib their way through a subject picked on the spur of the moment.

The subject Thursday night was psychiatry and, without anyone telling a single psychiatrist joke, the bit built up amusingly. But it could just as easily turn into a resounding bomb.

At the same time on ABC, a documentary was encountering slow going making a case for extra sensory perception.

"The Baffling World of ESP" was earnest about the subject, ran into a real stone wall because it turned out to be a subject much easier to discuss than to illustrate. Result was that it was largely a talk show with parapsychologists, psychologists, physicists and even medium discussing such subjects as telepathy and empathy and dram.

The documentary, in general, suffered from an excess of talk and what was really a lack of visual documentation.

Would Get UA Upgraded

CROSSETT, Ark. (AP) — Lynn Love, a 4th District candidate for Congress, said Thursday night that he would get U. S. 82 upgraded to meet standards of the interstate system if elected.

"Highway 82 is ideally located and is one of the last major highways in the country that has not been given interstate status," Love, a Republican, said.

He told a civic club here that the highway was not adequate to support future traffic loads and "it is considered a death trap now."

Matson and Lindgren Set Records

By RON GILBERT
Associated Press Sports Writer
BLOOMINGTON, Ind. (AP) — Double NCAA winners Randy Matson of Texas A&M and Gerry Lindgren of Washington State will be looking to future meets as they lead the college contingent to the National AAU Track and Field Championships in New York this week.

UCLA's champions also will be well represented. The first two in each AAU event, plus alternates, will form the American squad to face teams from Poland July 15-16 at Berkeley, Calif., and from Russia July 23-24 at Los Angeles. "I am looking ahead to the National AAU and want to make the U.S. team for the Polish and Russian meets," Matson said after setting a record of 67-1/2 in the shot put in the NCAA meet at Indiana University Friday.

"Yes, I also am looking ahead toward the 1968 Olympics," he added.

Matson made it clear that he wasn't just dreaming as he went on to set a record of 197 feet Saturday.

Cards Sweep, Pirates Edge Atlanta

Associated Press Sports Writer
Harry Walker didn't take to Willie Stargell's puppy but he certainly doesn't mind his being top dog.

Stargell was just that today after his leadoff homer in the 11th inning gave the Pittsburgh Pirates a 2-1 victory over Atlanta and gave him the National League batting lead over three teammates with a .328 average.

But it wasn't long ago that Stargell was in Walker's doghouse because of his puppy.

The Pittsburgh manager things, among them dogs at takes exception to a number of spring training. And he was particularly disturbed when Stargell went to meet Baron — his German shepherd — at the airport.

"The pup's only five months old," Stargell explained. "He might forget me if he doesn't see me for seven weeks."

So Stargell had arranged for the pup to be shipped to spring training. And Walker arranged for a conference with Stargell. The battle eventually ended in a draw when Stargell boarded the dog with a veterinarian.

Stargell has avoided the doghouse ever since by taking steps toward the National League throne room.

Right now he's at the top but in a tight battle with 3 other Pirates — Matty Alou a .325, Manny Mota at .324 and Roberto Clemente, the titlist the last two years, tied with Houston's Joe Morgan at .321.

Stargell's homer, his 13th, lifted the Pirates to within 1 1/2 games of National League leader San Francisco with their fourth straight victory and their seventh in the last nine games. The Giants were beaten by Los Angeles 2-1.

Elsewhere, St. Louis swept Philadelphia 1-0 and 5-1, Cincinnati took two from the New York Mets 5-0 and 4-2 and the Chicago Cubs crushed Houston in both ends of a doubleheader 9-8 and 8-2.

In the American League, Washington edged Cleveland 2-1, Detroit nipped the New York Yankees by the same score, Minnesota defeated the Chicago White Sox 6-1, Kansas City swept California 1-0 and 3-2 in 10 innings and Baltimore downed Boston 5-3 before the Red Sox won the nightcap 5-2.

Bob Veale got the victory for the Pirates, his seventh against five losses, with a five-hitter. He had a shutout until the eighth when Hank Aaron tied the game 1-1 with his 23 homer.

Palmer and Casper Meet in Playoff

By BOB GREEN
Associated Press Sports Writer
SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — "I'll be eating buffalo meat before long," Arnold Palmer said. He had just blown a seven-stroke lead in the final round of the U.S. Open Golf Championship and fallen into a tie at 278 with Billy Casper, the one-time fat man who lost 50 pounds on an exotic diet of bear meat, buffalo steaks and blueberries.

They met in an 18-hole playoff, the fourth in the last five years for the Open title, starting at 1:30 p.m., EST, today. Palmer, the 1960 champion, has been involved in two previous Open playoffs, losing to Jack Nicklaus and Julius Boros. Casper, the 1959 Champ, has not been in an Open playoff.

Both Palmer and Casper, who were playing head to head, pointed to the 15th hole as the key in the weird final round Sunday. Palmer, playing with the nerve and fire of old, birdied the first two holes, charged out to a seven-stroke lead and appeared on his way of breaking Ben Hogan's Open record score of 276.

With seven holes to go, he had a six-stroke margin "and I was playing for second," Casper said. "I was looking at the scoreboard to see how Nicklaus and Tony Lema were doing."

"Arnold thought he was going to shoot a 274 and I did, too. It looked like he had come and gone with the tournament."

But he hadn't.

"When we made the turn, I started thinking about shooting a 274 and that's when I made my first mistake," Palmer said. "When we'd finished the 15th I began to wonder. I knew what could happen, and that's what did happen."

What happened was this: The muscular Palmer, golf's all-time leading money winner, dropped a stroke with a bogey at 13. On 15, Casper ran in a 20-foot birdie putt and Palmer was in a trap, wedged out and two-putted for a bogey.

That cut it back to three, and it went to one on 16 with another Casper birdie and another Palmer bogey. Billy dropped in a 15-foot putt, while Palmer hit a tree, was in a trap and two-putted.

Traveler Errors Are Real Costly

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Amarillo took advantage of two Arkansas throwing errors on the same play Sunday and trimmed the Travelers 7-6 in the 11th inning of a Texas League baseball game.

Traveler third baseman Quique Rivera overthrew second base on an attempted double play, sending Amarillo's Ed Pacheco streaking for third.

When Traveler right fielder Bobby Dews overthrew third, Pacheco raced home with the winning run.

In other games, Austin beat Allamore 7-5 and El Paso defeated Dallas-Fort Worth 7-2.

Streaking El Paso won its sixth straight game, with a two-run homer by Winston Llenas, the hero.

The contest was reversed at Allamore where the Dodgers dropped their sixth straight game.

Campaneris Leads A's to a Sweep

By MURRAY CHASS
Associated Press Sports Writer
Bert Campaneris, who stepped into Ginger Rogers' class last year, now has danced all over the California Angels.

Campaneris scored the only run in the opener, then came back and scored the tying and winning runs in the nightcap Sunday as the Kansas City Athletics swept the Angels 1-0 and 3-2 and stopped their seven-game winning streak.

Although the 24-year-old Cuban isn't one of the top hitters in the majors, he certainly is among the most versatile fielders. Owner Charles O. Finley of the Athletics put that versatility on display in a game last September.

Campaneris, Finley decided, would play all nine positions in a single game. But before the regular shortstop performed the feat against the Angels Sept. 8, Finley insured him for $1 million. Explained the owner: "Movie producers insured the legs of Marlene Dietrich and Ginger Rogers for $1 million. I'm going that one better. I'm insuring all of him, not just his legs."

With the policy spread among four insurance companies, Campaneris spread himself all over the field, becoming the first player in the majors ever to play all nine positions in one game.

Campaneris stuck to short Sunday, but it was his hitting and running that cooled off the Angels.

In the ninth inning of the scoreless opener, he beat out an infield single, was sacrificed to second and dashed home on Danny Cater's single.

The Athletics trailed 2-1 in the second game until Campaneris reached first on Frank Malzone's error in the eighth and raced home on Mike Hershberger's double.

Then, with two out in the 10th, Campaneris lashed a double to left field and continued all the way around when Willie Smith threw wildly trying to get him at second.

How Fast Can Tommy Run? ... It's a Matter of Record

TOMMY SMITH
"It might be possible"

'He can sustain speed longer than any sprinter the world has ever known.'

By SANDY PADWE
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

NEW YORK — (NEA) — It was Sally Smith who first convinced Tommy Smith that he could become one of the world's best sprinters.

Sally Smith is Tommy's sister and when she was in the seventh grade, she could run faster than her brother.

So a match race developed.

"I beat her," Tommy said, "and from then on I knew I could run pretty fast."

Tommy Smith can run so fast now that he has broken three world records this spring — 200 meters (19.5), 220 yards straightaway (19.5) and the 220 around a curve (20.0).

Bud Winter, his coach at San Jose State College, feels Tommy can break even more records.

"I still believe," Winter said, "he'll break all the world sprint marks due primarily to the fact that he can sustain speed longer than any sprinter the world has ever known."

"All we need to get him to do is to reach his peak speed sooner in a race. When he does that, watch out. He'll be amazing in the 220 and perhaps even more sensational in the quarter."

"In the 100 all he needs to do is face the right competition, then get the lead as quick as he can, rather than waiting until he's 80 or 90 yards out, and there's another record."

"His top times each week, regardless of conditions, can best be illustrated by the California Relays at Modesto. In the 440, he ran his second straight 45.7 (second best in the world this year), but he ran it like an 880 man. The night was cold, he ran the backstretch into an 11-mile-an-hour head wind and waited back in the pack until the last 100 yards and still managed 45.7."

In addition to the sprints, Smith is a world-class performer in the long jump. His best so far is 25-11, a school record.

Les Bond, one of his teammates (and a long jumper) at San Jose State, thinks Tommy could jump 27 and possibly 28 feet if he concentrated on the event.

"Les," said Tommy with a smile, "is a good friend." Then as an afterthought: Tommy said, "But I do think it might be possible."

Tommy's best time in the 100 this year is a wind-aided 9.2, plus an assortment of 9.3s.

One of Tommy's assets is a 9 1/2-foot stride. "Knee lift—I call it the four-leg reach—gives me the long stride," Tommy said. "The average sprinter's stride is about 8 1/2 feet."

Despite so many startling figures in so many varied events, the 21-year-old (6-2, 174 pounds) Smith maintains the 220 is his best event.

"It's my best," he says, "because it requires the runner to have excellent nat'nal speed and not too much endurance. But the 440 is more challenging."

In the upcoming national championships at Randall's Island, N.Y., June 25-26, Smith has entered the 100 and 220. The only reason he's skipping the 440 is because it immediately follows the 220.

The winners in the national meet qualify for the United States team that will face Russia and Poland this summer.

The Russians and Poles should see a lot of Tommy Smith.

By 1968, a lot of others will, too.

It is possible that Tommy Smith, as his coach says, could be a four gold-medal winner at the Mexico City Olympics.

Bob Thomas at the Movies

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Meanwhile, back at Ponderosa —

They're already at work on the 1968-69 season of "Bonanza," which has proven its name for NBC, its sponsor, producers and stars. Those indomitable Cartwrights are once more at home on the range — Lorne Greene ever the father image, Dan Blocker fat and sassy, and Mike Landon the sex symbol, though slightly gray-haired.

Little Joe gray-haired? Yes, it's true, though the aging process has set in early. Otherwise Mike Landon remains the picture of youthful vigor, thanks to his daily sessions in the Paramount Studio gym while others are feeding in the commissary.

Landon, like his fellow Cartwrights, exudes confidence about the coming season.

The actor reflected on the number of opposition shows that have hit the boneway and commented: "The best opposition we've had has been the feature movies."

ABC will once again be pitting the features against "Bonanza." The color Western will be offering more of its same formula in the series' eighth year.

"We're not planning anything new," commented Landon. "There may be more two-parters, which I don't entirely ap-

Waves Want To Sink a War Veteran

By JANET STAIHAR
BAINBRIDGE, Md. (AP) — The Waves want to sink a World War 11 veteran, Janet Blumberg, 24, mount Holly Springs Pa. She's the Waves public information officer.

Commanded by Cmdr. Anne L. Ducey, 51, of Haverstraw, N.Y., the Navy's only female commanding officer, the center trains 600 recruits in summer months.

This drops to half that in winter, after graduation rushes. The Navy has upward of 5,000 Waves, short for Women Accepted for Volunteer Emergency Service.

Recently the Waves came into the news when Paul H. Nitze, secretary of the navy, announced a cutback at Bainbridge. He said the Navy plans to shift the Waves training center and other facilities to Orlando, Fla. because of cost factors.

A half-finished barracks for the Waves will be used for other purposes.

"It's tough. But it's fun," said Seaman Sharon Tremmel, 18, Cleveland, Ohio. "And you learn how to get dressed in two minutes flat, head to foot. Before coming here, boy! was I unorganized!"

That's the keyword, organization.

Either "baby booties"—new recruits—shape up in 10 weeks of boot camp or they're out.

Fifteen per cent do not make it so a board of naval officers and doctors sign release papers.

Some draftees won't accept discipline. Many are too slow and buckle under the diet of drills and classes.

Sixty recruits, a company, arrive every two weeks. Teen-age girls accustomed to Bobby Darin, pop-op, and privacy are apt to be jarred silent.

Eight recruits share a cubicle. They sleep in bunk beds, walk on bare-board floors and look up at bare-beamed ceilings.

Next, a crew of seamstresses doggedly stitch 60 hemlines to "within two inches of the knee, ladies," and put in countless tucks to compensate for Jayne Mansfield figures.

Sometime later, after the tailoring is done, they'll be issued Navy blue winter uniforms, very smart white dress uniforms, and two-piece blue-and-white striped summer suits.

But now, 60 rather scared recruits trek out of the fitting room, clad in blue raincoats with the hoods up. For all the world they look like a band of monks. Ahead of them is 10 weeks of learning navy symbols, weapons parts and endless drills.

History and Religion in Hungary City

By JOHN BEST
Canadian Press Writer
ESZTERGOM, Hungary (AP) — History and religion pervade this old city perched atop a big bend in the Danube River, 40 miles north of Budapest.

This is where the Magyar invaders established their first royal capital more than 1,000 years ago.

It's also still theoretically the ecclesiastical seat of Josef Cardinal Mindszenty, Roman Catholic primate of Hungary, who since the 1956 revolution has been living in an asylum in the United States legation in Budapest.

On the bus ride through ancient farming country from Budapest, you get a glimpse of signs of more recent history. At two or three points along the narrow, winding road Soviet army camps are visible. And if you look sharply across the top of the wall that separates one such camp from the road, you can see a row of tanks lined up in ached, chilling reminders of the 1956 uprising which was suppressed by Soviet tanks in the streets of the capital.

In Esztergom itself the most striking physical characteristic is the basilica, largest church in Hungary, an imposing structure that rises out of a cliff just above the river.

The hill crowned by the church contains Roman, medieval Hungarian and Turkish remains, having been used by successive conquerors as a fortress and by the Hungarian kings of the early Middle Ages as the site of a royal palace.

Existence of the palace was unknown until a few decades ago when a large stone fell from an ancient rampart into a garden below. The owner reported it to police.

Investigation revealed two beautiful Romanesque gates, beyond which stood a building in the early French Gothic style. It was the palace of King Bela III — 1173-96 — which, like many other medieval buildings in Hungary, had been ruined and forgotten during the long Turkish occupation.

The primate's palace is situated in the oldest part of this city of 22,000, at the foot of the citadel hill. Inside the palace, at one end of the building, is the Christian museum, rich in early Hungarian and Italian paintings, French tapestries and Italian, Hungarian and German glassware.

It's possible to make an honest mistake on the way upstairs to the second-floor museum and wander — as I did — into the cardinal's residence.

The sign on the first-floor door says "keep out" but since it's in Hungarian, I didn't know this at the time. As a result I became one of the few Westerners who has been in Mindszenty's palace since the Communists took over in Hungary.

Portraits of popes and cardinals looked down from the walls of the dusky corridor along which I walked. As I stood studying one of these portraits, there was a rustle of garments nearby. From the interior of the palace came a lone nun who wasted little time showing me the way out.

Living in self-imposed exile in Budapest, Mindszenty at 74 is said to be in good health, enjoying a daily stroll in the courtyard of the U.S. legation.

Tips to TV Viewers, Be Selective

By GAYLORD SHAW
WASHINGTON (AP) — The newly designated chairman of the Federal Communications Commission has a tip for the nation's television viewers: be more selective in deciding what programs to watch.

"One should choose his programs like his reading material," said Rosel H. Hyde, 66, white-haired dean of federal regulators who was picked by President Johnson Saturday to head the agency that rides herd on broadcasters.

He described his own television habits as selective and recommended that his fellow viewers be judicious, too, "just like I would recommend that anyone going to the library should not start to read everything that might be convenient."

Hyde acknowledged tuning in on "Batman" once and said he enjoys watching one Western, which he wouldn't name because "I don't want to plug it."

In his 20 years on the commission, Hyde frequently has been outnumbered by commissioners who favor tougher government regulation of broadcasting.

Hyde repeatedly has contended the government should nourish a favorable climate for improving broadcasting and avoid "the smothering and stifling effect over-regulation may have on initiative and creativity."

"I certainly oppose trying to regulate programming or to harass people into doing what I find might be suited to my taste," he said today in an interview, adding: "I do feel strongly the industry should show a sense of responsibility."

"We hope for improvement," Hyde said. "We're not satisfied it's as good as it can be." He disagreed, however, with former FCC Chairman Newton Minow's description of television as a "vast wasteland."

"It's not a loss. They are serving the public," he said of broadcasters.

Dismissal of Trooper Rescinded

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Herman Lindsey, director of the Arkansas State Police, said Thursday he had rescinded his dismissal of a trooper for falsifying an accident report.

Lindsey said that John Washington of Conway would be suspended, however, for 60 days without pay. Washington admitted that he falsified the report about a month ago to protect a fellow trooper who was not identified, Lindsey said. He added that no insurance was involved in the accident.

Lindsey said he reconsidered his dismissal order in light of Washington's record of service over the past 10 years, and decided on the suspension.

Big Balloon May Bring Some Answers

VANDENBERG AIR FORCE BASE, Calif. (AP) — A big shiny balloon—if it's successfully orbited this week — will help answer the old question: Where on earth...?

The aluminized plastic ball, 100-feet in diameter when inflated, is scheduled for launch not later than Thursday, National Aeronautics and Space Administration spokesmen said. It's called PAGEOS.

Orbiting 2,600 miles above the earth, it will serve as a target for cameras at 41 points around the earth. It carries no instruments.

PAGEOS' bright skin, scientists said, should reflect enough light to help plot the exact location of points on earth.

The project is a part of the U.S. National Geodetic Survey's mapping program. PAGEOS stands for Passive Geodetic Earth-Orbiting Satellite.

CITY BY THE SEA

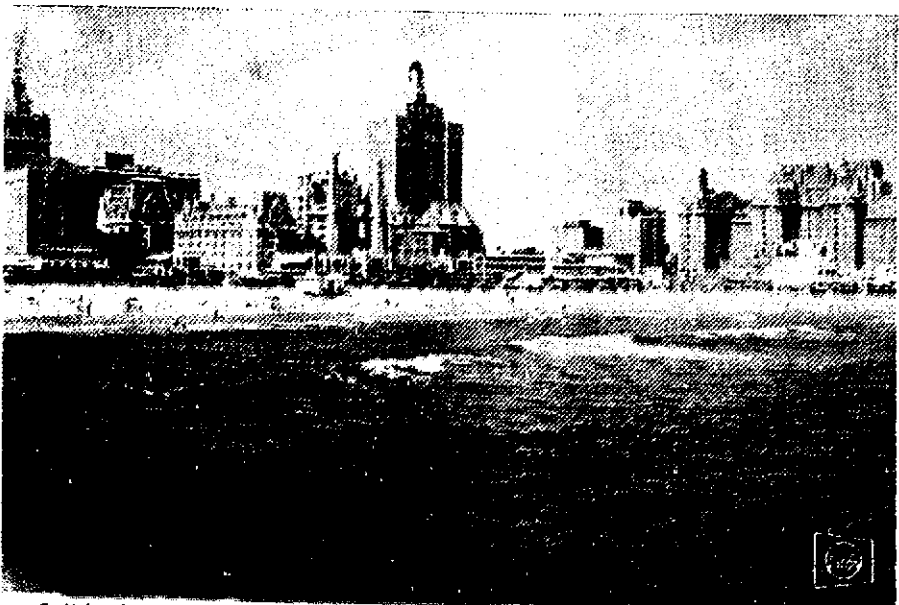

Where once ladies in ankle-length skirts and frilly parasols took the sun and air on the five-mile-long Boardwalk, bikinis and sun glasses are now the rule. There have been a lot of style changes for resorts as well as in fashions over the years, but this venerable old lady by the sea has survived them all and is still going strong—Atlantic City.

Huge Convention Hall, a magnet for large-scale gatherings of all descriptions, backs up Atlantic City's claim to be the convention capital of the nation. Regular visitors as speakers on the convention circuit range from baseball's Bill Veeck to Vice President Humphrey to Norman Vincent Peale. And of course there's always the razzle dazzle of the annual Miss America Pageant. The very first national miss was Margaret Gorman of Washington, D.C., in 1921.

There were great days in 1964 when the Democrats came to town to nominate Lyndon B. Johnson with all the glamor and tumult of a national political convention from the President's daughter to the uproar of a floor demonstration.

Solid, old hotels may lack the glitter of the sleek, new resorts of Florida and California, but passing years and changing tastes haven't dimmed the appeal of Atlantic City's greatest assets—the sea and the beach.

THE WELL CHILD

Weigh Steps Carefully Before Adopting Children

BY WAYNE G. BRANDSTADT, M.D.

The inability of some married couples (an estimated 10 per cent) to have children is a source of bitter disappointment. An even greater sorrow is felt by those who lose an only child and are unable to have any more. If this is your problem, two courses are open to you, either of which can be very rewarding. You can apply to your county welfare department to be foster parents or you can adopt a child. Some couples who act as foster parents grow to love the child so much that they later adopt him. Whichever course you choose, you must want very much to share your love with a child whose need for that love is very great and the desire to take the child into your home and heart must not come from one foster parent but from both. In fairness to the child you should never take this step to try to patch up a shaky marriage. Don't forget that the child has no voice in this decision and that he is the one who will suffer most if the love you thought you could give him fails. If either adoptive parent is over 45, the step must be weighed very carefully because, even with the best of intentions, you may find keeping up with an infant's needs too exhausting, that the noise of a crying baby is intolerable or that the worries involved are taking too much out of you. Furthermore, the chances that you will live to see him cast his first vote, although good, are not as good as with younger parents. These are some of the reasons that foster care and adoption agencies are so cautious in screening prospective parents. Surveys have shown that adoptions are much more successful when they are screened by a responsible agency. The emotional maturity and the success of the marriage have been found to be more important than the educational level, religion, or economic status of the prospective parents. Another factor in any successful adoption is a sincere belief (regardless of whether it can be scientifically proved) that environment is more important than heredity in bringing up a child. Once you have adopted a child, should you tell him he is adopted? Most authorities agree that he should be told when he reaches the age of 5 but the telling must be casual, preferably in answer to his questions. A brief, simple explanation should be given without any show of anxiety over his reaction. Many an adopted child is proud to have been "selected" rather than unceremoniously dumped into a household.

Park Lot Reopens Magnificent Hoe Spring Shakedown

Hope Star commercial parking lot at Division and Hazel Sts. which has been closed for two weeks to permit paving and installation of new stall markings will reopen Tuesday morning, your editor today advised the W. Shanhouse & Sons management, whose employees comprise most of our customers. All 57 stalls are rented, so this is merely a public-convenience notice, not an advertisement.

You would think the regreveling and blacktopping of an open piece of ground would be just a routine job. But no earth-moving job is ever routine. When you dig in the earth you discover things — and trouble. This was a gravel and blacktop contract with the City of Hope for $1,185.25 plus the steel work from Arkansas Machine Specialty Co., and it was supposed to take only a week. But Dave Peters, city street department superintendent, and his men ran into an old water line that gave them no end of trouble and stretched the job to two weeks.

They had not only to dig up the line but excavate around it so the dirt would dry out before paving. Even so, there is a soft spot on the north side of the parking lot which only time will "cure". Anyway the job is done and we welcome our customer's return. All have been given credit for the two weeks the lot was closed to them.

You have noted a lot of construction is under way in Hope, and one of the most intriguing sights was the performance of a back-hoe machine digging pits for two over-size gasoline tanks at the new service station Humble Oil & Refining Co. is building at Third and Laurel Sts. A couple of sidewalk superintendents, L. Carter Johnson and your editor, admired the skillful operator who walked and spun the big excavator without letting it fall into the pits it was digging. Then the tanks were put in the holes and covered.

Next day we noted some men carefully examining the smooth blank face of the service station site. Johnson and I came up with the same remark: "Be they're having trouble getting the buried tanks and the pumps together!" But it was a bum guess — they knew what they were doing.

However, the City of Hope risked serious trouble in a similar project some years ago. The State Highway Department resurfaced Third Street the route of U. S. Highway 67, and while the job was under way the late Charles Thomas, then city engineer and water & light plant manager, discovered just in the nick of time that no one in the city government had made a map of the location of the street man-holes which the state boys were busy covering up. The man-holes were about to be "lost" under an avalanche of asphalt — but one veteran Negro city employee had all the information in his head . . . and it was put down safely on paper before the state job was permitted to proceed.

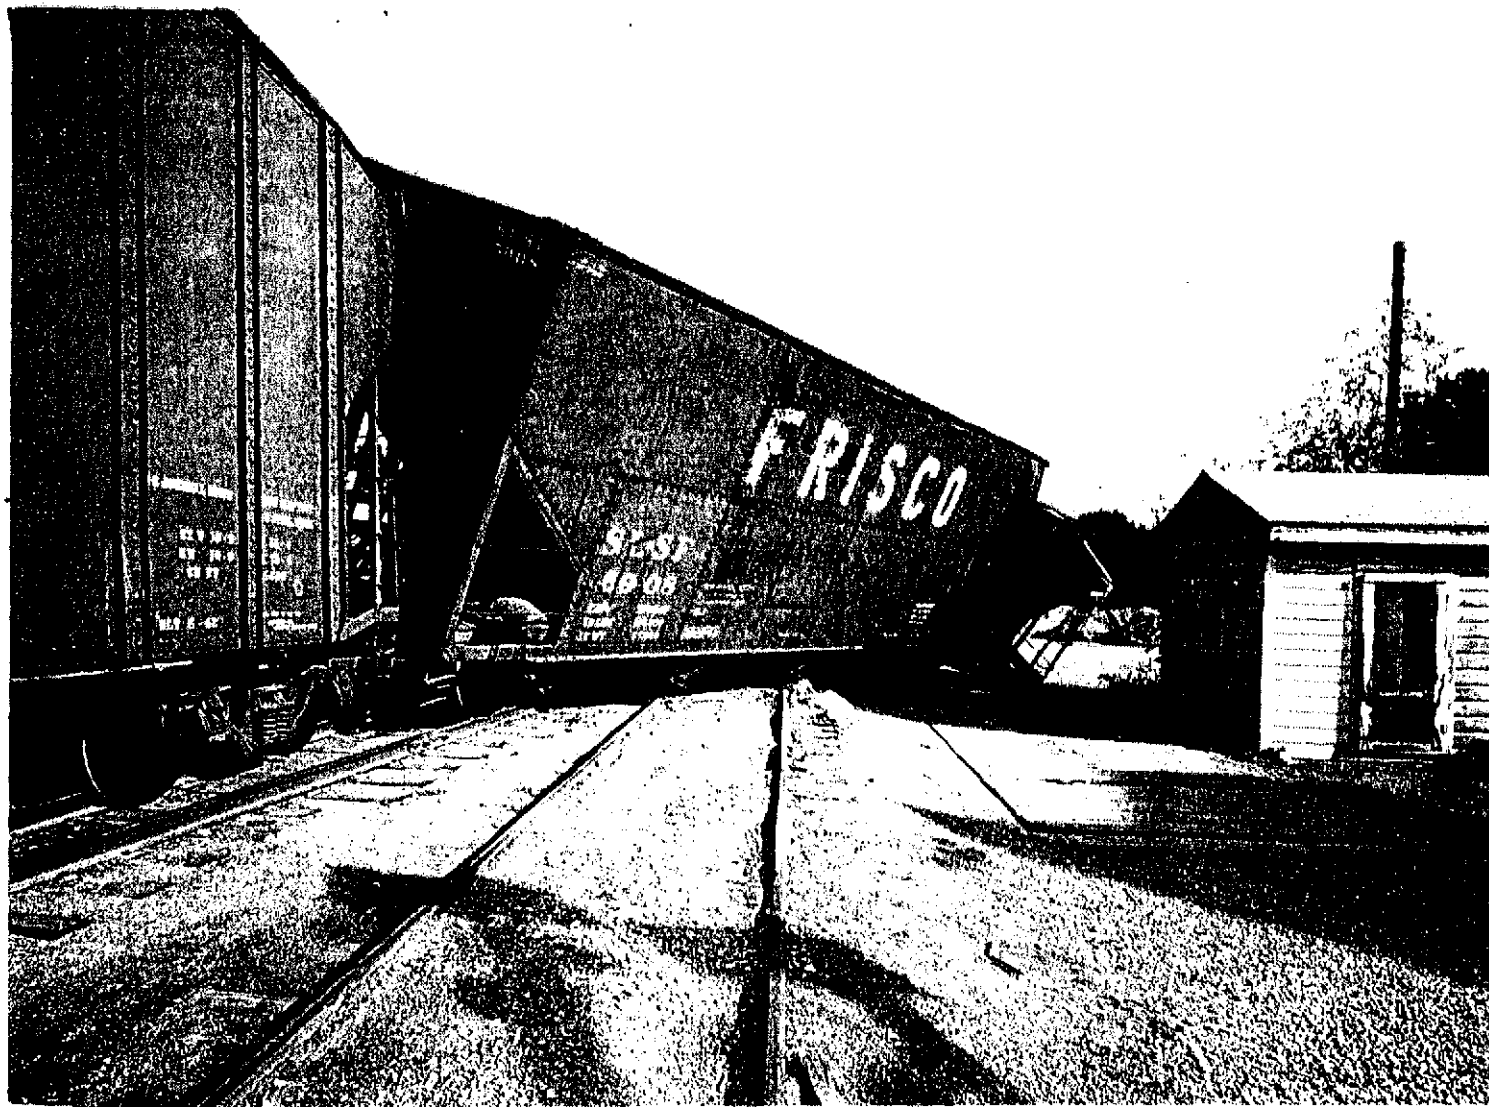

Any man with a boat will appreciate this one.

I launched my rig at the Narrows about three weeks ago for a spring shakedown cruise which was to include some fishing. But neither your editor nor his two companions wet a hook. We had had the engine checked, and it ran beautifully on land. But once we got the outfit in the water it positively refused to bark. Winter had built up a residue of gum in the gasoline — and we regretfully left the craft with the mechanic at the Swaha dock to get the carburetors cleaned for another day.

I got the word everything was O. K. and Pod Rogers, circulation manager, and I took off for the lake last Saturday with 11 newsboys. What happened? Your first guess was the right one. We blew a 60-amp. fuse I didn't know was even on board — and our boat was a dead duck. Memphis is sending down three spare fuses, with no comment as yet on what caused the equipment fuse to blow.

That's why all water craft — from canoe to the largest ship

Boxcars Overturned in Frisco Yard in Hope

Just Don't Do Any Driving, Drinking McNamara Rejects Call of Reserves

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congressional testimony confirms that Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara has rejected recommendations of the Joint Chiefs of Staff to call up Army reserves for duty in Viet Nam.

Sen. John C. Stennis, D-Miss., chairman of the Senate Armed Services Preparedness subcommittee, released Sunday night a heavily censored transcript of the Joint Chiefs' testimony during subcommittee hearings last May.

The transcript disclosed that the callup recommendation had been made three times since last spring by the four-star Joint Chiefs, although Gen. Harold K. Johnson, Army chief of staff, later conceded that McNamara's decision proved sound. Johnson told the subcommittee that although he had joined in the recommendations, he now believes the vetoes were "in the national interest" because "the declaration of an emergency and the mobilization of a powerful nation like the United States would send shivers and tremors throughout all the world."

Blevins Boy Critically Injured

Donde Fulton, 10-year-old Blevins youth critically injured Friday in a wreck on Highway 24 near Marlbrook Church, remained in a coma in a Prescott hospital.

State Policeman Guy Downing said young Fulton was driving alone when his car apparently went out of control on a curve and hit a bridge.

Application

WASHINGTON (AP) — After neighbors said it would be an eyesore and a nuisance, Rep. Charles E. Goodell, R-N.Y., withdrew an application to build a swimming pool in front of his home in Washington.

The congressman had applied to the Zoning Adjustment Board for a permit to construct an 18 by 36-foot pool in the front yard of his home near American university.

Democrats Keep Up GOP Attack

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Continued attacks on the administration, the Republican Party and on each other highlighted the weekend of politicking by gubernatorial candidates in Arkansas.

Eight of the nine candidates, including the two GOP aspirants, faced editors and publishers at the annual convention of the Arkansas Press Association in Jonesboro. Sam Boyce was unable to appear.

The candidates made short opening statements to the newsmen in a panel session, then submitted themselves to questions that ran the gamut from increased taxes to damming the Buffalo River.

All of the candidates said they favor limiting the number of terms the governor may serve, but the length and number of terms they would want differed.

Republican Winthrop Rockefeller said he felt the governor should be limited to one four-year term. Raymond Rebsamen, Kenneth Sulcer and Brooks Hays agreed.

Dale Alford and Gus McMillan, who opposes Rockefeller, said they favored two terms of two years and Frank Holt said he would like to see a four-year term with a limit of two terms.

They all also opposed any increase in taxes and Rebsamen said "There ought to be a decrease in taxes." He drew applause.

Four candidates, Alford Rockefeller, Sulcer and Rebsamen, favored retention of the Arkansas right-to-work law, a question which also involves repeal of Section 14b of the federal Taft-Hartley Act. That section permits states to enact right-to-work laws.

Holt said the issue should be decided by voters. Hays said the issue was a federal one and did not belong in the governor's race.

The candidates were divided 5 and 3 on university status for Arkansas State College. Alford, Sulcer and McMillan said definitely year. The others promised not to resist the move if it appeared in the best interests of the state and college.

DeGaulle Visit to Moscow Concerns U.S.

By HARRY KELLY

WASHINGTON (AP) — With French President Charles de Gaulle's Moscow visit dramatizing tensions on both sides of the Iron Curtain, the administration's European policy faces new challenges in the Senate today as outworn and frozen.

Hearings on the North Atlantic Treaty Organization — one in the House, two in the Senate — and calls for a Johnson-De Gaulle summit meeting stress U.S. concern with NATO problems since France pulled out of the alliance's military structure.

But the concern is tied in with Capitol Hill frustrations about the high costs of the U.S. worldwide commitments and the failure of its European allies to help in Viet Nam.

The Senate Foreign Relations Committee opens its hearings on NATO and European problems today by questioning McGee Bundy, former foreign policy adviser to Presidents Johnson and John F. Kennedy.

Bundy is the first witness at what committee chairman J. W. Fulbright calls "educational" hearings, the same term he applied to his sessions on Viet Nam and Red China.

Fulbright said the hearings "are intended to focus attention on the problems facing the United States and Europe today — a Europe that is going through profound changes in political relationships."

The committee set the stage for its hearings by sending Sen. Frank Church, D-Idaho, to Europe last month to talk with government leaders, including De Gaulle.

Upon his return, Church said many Europeans feel the United States "is not moving with the times."

He also said he found communications between Paris and Washington had broken down and that the two allies were separated by a "diplomatic glacier." He urged a face-to-face meeting between De Gaulle and Johnson.

The identical argument was presented to Secretary of State Dean Rusk when he testified last week on NATO problems before Sen. Henry M. Jackson's Government operations subcommittee on national security.

Confession Ruling Not Retroactive

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court today barred retroactive application of its new rules strictly limiting trial use of confessions.

With the decision, written by Chief Justice Earl Warren, the high court affirmed the first degree murder conviction of two New Jersey men awaiting execution in the 1958 slaying of a Camden merchant.

Justices Hugo L. Black and William O. Douglas dissented, saying the New Jersey men, Sylvester Johnson and Stanley Cassidy, were entitled to the constitutional protections spelled out by the court last Monday and in another landmark ruling in 1964.

11-Day Stay Is Planned by DeGaulle

MOSCOW (AP) — President Charles de Gaulle flew to Moscow today for an 11-day state visit reportedly aimed at attaining closer cooperation between East and West.

Authoritative sources in Paris said De Gaulle would sign no treaties during his talks with Kremlin leaders. But some French sources predicted that the Soviet Union and France might reach new agreements in the cultural and technical fields.

After an opening round of talks with Soviet President Nikolai S. Podgorniy and Premier Alexei N. Kosygin, De Gaulle was to make his first major speech tonight at a dinner in his honor at the Kremlin.

Moscow newspapers all carried an official statement Sunday welcoming the French president and praising his government for making an independent effort to establish east-West bonds: A formal portrait of De Gaulle appeared on all front pages.

To Prosecute Men Accused in Slayings

MERIDIAN, Miss. (AP) — The federal government will prosecute 17 men accused in the slaying of three civil rights workers in U.S. District Court here Sept. 26.

Judge Harold Cox, who previously dismissed charges against the defendants, will hear the case based on two century-old laws.

The U.S. Supreme Court ruled March 28 the government could prosecute those accused in the 1964 deaths of Michael Schwerner, Andrew Goodman and James Chaney under two laws enacted in 1866 and 1870.

The original indictments against the 17 men, including three law officers, had been obtained under Reconstruction-era laws.

Transfer of Rights Cases to Be Limited

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court ruled today civil rights prosecutions may be removed from state to federal courts only in limited circumstances.

To rule otherwise, Justice Potter Stewart said, would "work a wholesale dislocation of the historic relationships between the state and federal courts in the administration of criminal law."

In the case in which Stewart spoke, the court by a 5-4 vote said 29 persons arrested on various local charges in 1964 in LeFlore County, Miss., cannot have their trials transferred from state to federal court.

Stewart said, "no federal law confers an absolute right on private citizens — on civil rights advocates, on Negroes, or on anybody else — to obstruct a public street, to contribute to the delinquency of a minor, to drive an automobile without a license, or to bite a policeman."

Further, Stewart said, no federal law confers immunity from state prosecution on such charges.

Ky Tightens Hold on Hue, Guards Leader

By ANDREW BOROWIEC

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — Premier Nguyen Cao Ky's troops tightened their hold on Hue today and sealed off the hospital room where the leader of the northern Buddhist revolt continued his antigovernment, anti-American fast for a 18th day.

While the rebellion led by militant monk Thich Tri Quang appeared to lose more ground, Ky's military regime pushed ahead toward promised civilian elections Sept. 1 on a wave of confidence voiced by Ky as he began his second year in office.

Chief of State Nguyen Van Thieu signed a decree setting the election date and providing for a 100-seat constituent assembly to draft a constitution. The government, as expected, rejected the proposal of its electoral commission to allow the assembly to transform itself into a governing parliament.

The decree also showed the junta's determination to remain in power well into 1967 by requiring a second round of voting for a national legislature three to six months after the generals approve the constitution.

Freedom of Information Vote Is Due

By CARL P. LEUBSDORF

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House is expected to vote final congressional approval today of a bill that would strengthen the right of Americans to find out what their government is doing.

The measure, termed a freedom of information or "right to know" bill, would establish the basic policy that government records should be available to the public unless specific reasons exist for maintaining secrecy.

It comes before the House under a procedure that requires a two-thirds vote for approval, limits debate to 40 minutes and permits no amendments. Since the bill is in the same form passed by the Senate last year, House approval would send it to the White House.

Rep. John E. Moss, D-Calif., chief sponsor of the bill, said he knows of no opposition to the measure which enjoys broad bipartisan backing. Asked if he expected President Johnson to sign it, Moss said: "I do indeed."

There has been opposition to the measure within some government agencies. Neither the administration nor the House Democratic leadership has taken an official stand on it. The House Republican leadership has endorsed it.

The bill would permit persons denied information to seek a federal court injunction forcing its disclosure and place the burden of proof in such cases on the agency rather than on the individual.

"I think that the provision for court review is by far the most important single thing in the bill," Moss told a reporter.

Existing information statutes are vague, and supporters of the new legislation claim present provisions intended to permit disclosure of information instead have been used to withhold it. The bill lists specific grounds on which information can be withheld.

The rest of the week's congressional calendar is somewhat sparsely with action only on some minor bills scheduled in the Senate. House consideration of two important measures depends on approval early in the week by the Rules Committee.

The House bills are a three-year, $132-million program to train annually some 4,000 medical technologists and other health workers and a battered version of an administration proposal to overhaul unemployment compensation programs. Committees have a busier schedule. The House Armed Services Committee opens hearings Wednesday on the draft, the Judiciary Committee takes up the administration's civil rights bill Tuesday and the Foreign Affairs Committee votes today on the $3.3-billion foreign aid authorization.
